VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT .- Yesterday morn. ing, nearly all the clergymen of the District, white and black, waited upon President Johson, and were severally introduced to him. They then presented to him, through the Rev. Dr. Gurley, pastor of the church attended by the late Mr. Lincoln, a series of resolutions expressing their estimate of the character of the deceased, their detestation of the enormous -crimes perpetrated last Friday night, pledging to Mr. Johnson their earnest sympathy and The President replied, thanking them in the warmest terms for their very kind mention of him, and for their tendered support and en-couragement. He spoke with feeling of the great personal and public worth of his lamented predecessor. Assuming the grave responsibilities placed upon him, in obedience to the requirement of the Constitution, in consequence of this sad dispensation of Providence, he felt his own individual insufficiency, and the necessity of the kind counsel and co-operation of all his friends of their country. That support he should ferdeavor to deserve by shaping his course to those immediate principles of right which underlie our Government, and he had a sure faith that if we adhered to those principles, the Almighty would save the nation. He believed that this nation had a great mission to fulfill, and that God would not allow it to perish before its work has done. They had alluded to the murder of the late President, and the attempt of Mr. Seward's life, in just terms of indignation and horror. The assassination of any man, high or low, was a crime of the blackest dye. Especially diabolical was it when the blow was struck at the loyal and honored head of the great nation, in the very moment of triumph. But this norrible crime was only a portion of the greatest crimes -the attempted assassination of a nation. And he believed the American people felt it to be so. Treason he said was a crime, and not a mere difference of political opinions. The President closed by again thanking his

The interview was very impressive and solemn, and characterized by intense and hearty feeling on the part of both of the clergymen and the President. Soon after these gentlemen left, the heads of the various bureaus in the Treasury Department paid their respects to the President, being introduced by Third Auditor Wilson. Judge Lewis, Internal Revenue Commissioner, briefly pledged the cordial support of his fellow-officers to the Aministration. The President's response was similar to that to the clergymen. During the day a number of Senators and the (Jovernors of several states called upon the President. Among them was Governor Oglesby, of Illinois, who said that State would give to Mr. Johnson the same support it had given to Mr. Lincoln.

THE ARSENAL WORKMEN .- Last evening, a meeting of the employees of the Washington Arsenal was held at Island Hall, at which Mr. J G. Dudley presided, and Mr. C. S. Draper acted as secretary. Messrs. J. A. Burch, C. S. Draper, G. Z. Collison, H. H. Lemon, and A.
